

Discover Lebanon: 50 Kid-Life Quiz Facts

For review. Written for 3rd–5th graders at Family Heritage Night: everyday life for Lebanese kids, plus a few creepy-crawly facts. Each fact shows on the big screen first, then the question appears with four choices on the kids’ phones. The correct answer is in green. Tick the ones to keep (aim for about 30), and note any change in wording, spelling or accuracy.

1

TALK LIKE A LEBANESE KID

To say hello in Arabic, you say “Marhaba!” (mar-ha-ba).

Q: How do you say “hello” in Arabic?

Answer: Marhaba

Other choices: Shukran · Yalla · Bonjour

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

2

TALK LIKE A LEBANESE KID

Lots of Lebanese people greet each other with “Hi, kifak, ça va?” That is English, Arabic and French, all in one sentence!

Q: What is special about the greeting “Hi, kifak, ça va?”

Answer: It mixes three languages

Other choices: It is a secret code · It is sung, not said · It is only for babies

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

3

TALK LIKE A LEBANESE KID

“Habibi” (said to a boy) and “Habibti” (said to a girl) mean “my dear.” Families say it all day long!

Q: What does “habibi” mean?

Answer: My dear

Other choices: Hurry up · Good night · I’m hungry

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

4

TALK LIKE A LEBANESE KID

Lebanese kids call their grandma “Teta” and their grandpa “Jiddo.”

Q: What do Lebanese kids call their grandma?

Answer: Teta

Other choices: Mama Bear · Nana-Banana · Jiddo

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

5

TALK LIKE A LEBANESE KID

“Yalla!” means “Let’s go!” or “Hurry up!” Lebanese parents say it every morning before school.

Q: What does “Yalla!” mean?

Answer: Let’s go!

Other choices: Be quiet · Happy birthday · I’m sleepy

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

6

TALK LIKE A LEBANESE KID

The name “Lebanon” comes from an old word that means “white,” because the tops of its mountains are covered in snow.

Q: Where does the name “Lebanon” come from?

Answer: A word meaning “white,” for its snowy mountains

Other choices: A famous king named Leb · A word meaning “lemon” · A type of fish

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

7

SCHOOL

Many Lebanese schools grade tests out of 20, not 100. Getting 20 out of 20 is a perfect score!

Q: In many Lebanese schools, what is a perfect score on a test?

Answer: 20 out of 20

Other choices: 100 out of 100 · 5 gold stars · An A+++

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

8

SCHOOL

Many Lebanese kids learn three languages at school: Arabic, plus French or English, or both!

Q: How many languages do many Lebanese kids learn at school?

Answer: Three

Other choices: One · Ten · None

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

9

SCHOOL

In Lebanon, the biggest meal of the day is lunch, often eaten at home with family after school.

Q: What is the biggest meal of the day in Lebanon?

Answer: Lunch

Other choices: Breakfast · A midnight snack · Dessert

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

10

FOOD

A favorite Lebanese breakfast is man'oushe: warm flatbread baked with za'atar (a herb and sesame mix) and olive oil, or with melted cheese.

Q: What do many Lebanese kids eat for breakfast?

Answer: Man'oushe, a warm flatbread

Other choices: Pancakes with syrup · Cold pizza · Cereal with chocolate milk

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

11

FOOD

Labneh is a thick, creamy yogurt spread. A labneh sandwich with cucumbers or olives is a classic school lunch.

Q: What is labneh?

Answer: A thick, creamy yogurt spread

Other choices: A kind of candy · A soccer team · A hat

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

12

FOOD

Knefeh is a favorite Lebanese dessert: warm, gooey melted cheese under a crunchy top, soaked in sweet syrup. Some people eat it for breakfast!

Q: What is inside knefeh?

Answer: Warm, gooey cheese

Other choices: Ice cream · Peanut butter · Jelly beans

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

13

FOOD

Sfouf is a bright yellow cake. Its sunny color comes from a spice called turmeric, not from food coloring.

Q: What makes sfouf cake bright yellow?

Answer: A spice called turmeric

Other choices: Bananas · Yellow paint · Lemons

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

14

FOOD

Tarboosh is a famous Lebanese treat: a fluffy marshmallow on a cookie, dipped in chocolate. It is named after a tall, round hat because that is what it looks like!

Q: Why is the Tarboosh treat called that?

Answer: It looks like a hat called a tarboosh

Other choices: It was invented by a cat · It tastes like tar · It is shaped like a boat

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

15

FOOD

Some brave Lebanese grown-ups eat raw lamb's liver for breakfast, with mint, garlic and bread. Would you try it?

Q: What do some brave Lebanese grown-ups eat raw for breakfast?

Answer: Lamb's liver

Other choices: Snails · Frogs · Worms

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

16

GAMES & SPORTS

In Lebanon, hide-and-seek is called "ghommayda," which comes from the word for closing your eyes.

Q: What is "ghommayda"?

Answer: Hide-and-seek

Other choices: Tag · Jump rope · A tickle fight

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

17

GAMES & SPORTS

At Easter, kids dye eggs and have egg battles: two kids tap their eggs together, and whoever's egg does not crack wins!

Q: How do you win the Easter egg battle?

Answer: Your egg doesn't crack

Other choices: You eat the most eggs · You hide the egg best · You throw it farthest

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

18

GAMES & SPORTS

Soccer (called "football") is the most popular sport in Lebanon. Basketball is a big favorite too.

Q: What is the most popular sport in Lebanon?

Answer: Soccer (football)

Other choices: Ice hockey · Baseball · Surfing

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

19

GAMES & SPORTS

Tawleh (backgammon) is a board game with dice. Grandpas teach it to kids, and games get loud with lots of slapping of pieces and friendly teasing!

Q: What is tawleh?

Answer: A board game with dice (backgammon)

Other choices: A kind of bread · A dance · A bicycle race

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

20

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

In Lebanon, both Christmas and Eid are public holidays, so lots of kids get days off from school for both!

Q: Which holidays do Lebanese kids get off from school?

Answer: Both Christmas and Eid

Other choices: Only Halloween · Only Thanksgiving · None at all

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

21

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

On Eid, kids visit relatives and often get “eidiyeh”: a gift of money from grown-ups. Cha-ching!

Q: What is “eidiyeh”?

Answer: A money gift for kids on Eid

Other choices: A special Eid hat · A kind of cookie · A song

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

22

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

On December 4 many Lebanese kids celebrate Eid il-Burbara. They dress up in costumes and go house to house, a lot like Halloween! The special treat is boiled wheat with sugar and pomegranate seeds.

Q: Eid il-Burbara is a lot like which holiday?

Answer: Halloween

Other choices: The Fourth of July · Valentine’s Day · Groundhog Day

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

23

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

In Lebanon, Mother’s Day is on March 21, the first day of spring.

Q: When is Mother’s Day in Lebanon?

Answer: March 21, the first day of spring

Other choices: December 25 · July 4 · October 31

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

24

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

No tooth fairy here! A traditional Arab custom is to throw your baby tooth toward the sun and ask it to swap your tooth for a strong, pretty gazelle’s tooth.

Q: In the old custom, where do kids throw a lost baby tooth?

Answer: Toward the sun

Other choices: Into the ocean · Under the bed · Into a cake

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

25

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

The Arabic birthday song is “Sana helwa ya jamil,” which means “Have a sweet year, beautiful one!”

Q: What does the Arabic birthday song wish you?

Answer: A sweet year

Other choices: A big cake · Lots of homework · A long nap

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

26

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

Lebanon has no giant hunting spiders like Australia, but it does have camel spiders. With their legs, they can be bigger than your hand! They are fast and scary-looking, but they are not venomous.

Q: What is true about Lebanon’s camel spiders?

Answer: They can be bigger than your hand but aren’t venomous

Other choices: They ride on camels · They spin webs as big as houses · They glow in the dark

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

27

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

Lebanon’s black tarantula is big enough to catch and eat lizards! Its bite hurts but is not dangerous to people.

Q: What can Lebanon’s black tarantula eat?

Answer: Lizards

Other choices: Cars · Pizza · Elephants

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

28

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

More than 10 kinds of scorpions live in Lebanon. One, the deathstalker, is one of the most venomous scorpions in the world, so people shake out their shoes in dry areas!

Q: Why do some people in Lebanon shake out their shoes?

Answer: To check for scorpions

Other choices: To dry their socks · To make music · To find coins

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

29

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

Striped hyenas live in Lebanon. In snowy winters they sometimes sneak down into villages at night looking for food!

Q: What wild animal sometimes sneaks into Lebanese villages at night?

Answer: A striped hyena

Other choices: A polar bear · A kangaroo · A gorilla

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

30

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

Sea turtles dig nests and lay their eggs on the beaches near the city of Tyre. When the babies hatch, they scurry down the sand into the sea!

Q: What lays eggs on the beaches near Tyre?

Answer: Sea turtles

Other choices: Penguins · Crocodiles · Ostriches

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

31

EVERYDAY LIFE

Beirut is full of cats! You see them napping on cars, walls and steps all over the city.

Q: Which animal will you see all over the streets of Beirut?

Answer: Cats

Other choices: Kangaroos · Llamas · Penguins

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

32

EVERYDAY LIFE

Lebanese drivers honk their horns a LOT: to say hi, to say thanks, or just to say "I'm here!"

Q: Why do Lebanese drivers honk so much?

Answer: To say hi, thanks, or "I'm here!"

Other choices: To play songs · To scare birds · Because horns are free on Tuesdays

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

33

EVERYDAY LIFE

At a Lebanese table, a piece of pita bread is often your spoon! You tear off a piece and scoop up hummus and other dips.

Q: What do Lebanese people often use to scoop up hummus?

Answer: A piece of pita bread

Other choices: A straw · Their elbow · A tiny shovel

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

34

EVERYDAY LIFE

Sunday lunch at Teta's house is a big deal. Aunts, uncles and lots of cousins all squeeze around the table together.

Q: Where do many Lebanese families have a big Sunday lunch?

Answer: At Teta's (Grandma's) house

Other choices: At the zoo · On a boat · At school

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

35

EVERYDAY LIFE

Lebanese kids call grown-up family friends “Amo” (uncle) or “Tante” (aunt), even if they aren’t really related!

Q: What might a Lebanese kid call a grown-up family friend?

Answer: Amo or Tante (uncle or aunt)

Other choices: Captain · Your Majesty · Buddy-Pal

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

36

EVERYDAY LIFE

Many Lebanese people greet friends and family with three kisses on the cheeks: right, left, right!

Q: How many cheek kisses are in a classic Lebanese hello?

Answer: Three

Other choices: Zero · Ten · Twenty

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

37

EVERYDAY LIFE

If you ask a Lebanese parent for a treat, they might say “Inshallah,” which means “if God wills.” Kids know it often means “maybe!”

Q: When a Lebanese parent answers “Inshallah,” what does it often mean?

Answer: Maybe!

Other choices: Yes, right now! · Go to bed · Do your homework

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

38

FOOD & TREATS

Lebanese pickled turnips are bright pink! They get their color from a slice of beet in the jar.

Q: What makes Lebanese pickled turnips pink?

Answer: A slice of beet

Other choices: Pink paint · Strawberry jam · Bubble gum

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

39

FOOD & TREATS

In Lebanon, a “cocktail” is a thick fruit smoothie in a cup, piled with fruit chunks, sweet cream called ashta, honey and nuts. You eat it with a spoon!

Q: What is a Lebanese fruit “cocktail”?

Answer: A thick fruit smoothie topped with cream, honey and nuts

Other choices: A soda with ice · A chicken dish · A kind of hat

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

40

FOOD & TREATS

Many Lebanese desserts are flavored with rose water or orange blossom water, so they taste a little like flowers!

Q: Many Lebanese sweets taste a little like...

Answer: Flowers

Other choices: Pickles · Toothpaste · Pepperoni

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

41

FOOD & TREATS

In spring, kids snack on janarek: small, sour green plums dipped in salt. Crunchy and super sour!

Q: How do Lebanese kids like to eat sour green plums?

Answer: Dipped in salt

Other choices: Dipped in ketchup · Frozen in ice · Covered in sprinkles

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

42

FOOD & TREATS

Kibbeh nayyeh is a Lebanese dish of finely ground meat that is eaten RAW, with olive oil, mint and onions. Gross or yum?

Q: What is special about kibbeh nayyeh?

Answer: The meat is eaten raw

Other choices: It is frozen solid · It is bright blue · It is made of candy

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

43

WORDS & LETTERS

Arabic is written from right to left, but numbers are written from left to right, just like in English!

Q: Which way are numbers written in Arabic?

Answer: Left to right

Other choices: Right to left · Top to bottom · In a circle

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

44

WORDS & LETTERS

The Arabic alphabet has 28 letters. Most letters change their shape depending on whether they are at the start, middle or end of a word.

Q: How many letters are in the Arabic alphabet?

Answer: 28

Other choices: 10 · 26 · 100

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

45

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

In Lebanon, Santa Claus is called “Baba Noël.”

Q: What do Lebanese kids call Santa Claus?

Answer: Baba Noël

Other choices: Mr. Snowman · Jiddo Frost · Captain Christmas

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

46

HOLIDAYS & TRADITIONS

During Ramadan, a drummer called the musaharati walks the streets before sunrise, drumming and singing to wake families up for their early meal.

Q: What does the musaharati do during Ramadan?

Answer: Drums in the streets to wake people for an early meal

Other choices: Bakes all the bread · Paints the houses · Delivers the mail

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

47

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

Chameleons live in Lebanon. They can change color, and their eyes can look in two different directions at once!

Q: What can Lebanon’s chameleons do?

Answer: Change color and look two ways at once

Other choices: Fly · Talk · Breathe fire

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

48

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

Wolves still live in the mountains of Lebanon, along with foxes, jackals and wild boars.

Q: Which wild animal still lives in Lebanon’s mountains?

Answer: Wolves

Other choices: Tigers · Pandas · Zebras

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

49

CREEPY, CRAWLY & WILD

In summer, huge groups of jellyfish sometimes float along Lebanon’s beaches. Their sting hurts, so swimmers watch out!

Q: What do swimmers in Lebanon watch out for in summer?

Answer: Stinging jellyfish

Other choices: Sharks with hats · Flying fish that bite · Hot lava

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____

50

HISTORY

In the 1960s, a teacher and his college students in Lebanon built and launched their own rockets, called Cedar rockets. Some flew more than 10 miles high!

Q: What did college students in Lebanon build in the 1960s?

Answer: Rockets

Other choices: A robot dog · The first video game · A submarine

☐ Looks good ☐ Change: _____
